* Please refer to the fund supplement and scheme particulars for a detailed description of fees and fund facts.

** The Total Expense Ratios (TERs) are the percentages of the net asset value of the class of the Financial Product incurred as expenses relating to the administration of the Financial Product. A higher TER does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low TER imply a good return. A current TER may not necessarily be an accurate indication of future TERs. The TER to 31.12.25 is based on data for the period from 31.12.24 to 31.12.25 and the financial year-end TER is based on data for the financial year-end to 30.06.25. Cost ratios are calculated using historical actual and/or estimated data and are provided solely as an indication/guide as to the annual expenses/costs that could be incurred. These ratios do not represent any current/actual charges or fees.

*** Asset allocation figures reflect the strategic classification of the collective investment schemes (or similar schemes) held by the Fund and do not look through to the underlying holdings of such schemes.

Market commentary

The first quarter of 2026 was dominated by a sharp escalation in geopolitical risk, culminating in open conflict between the US and Iran. Markets initially absorbed developments with relative calm, but January and February gains were swiftly unwound as fears grew over a prolonged disruption to global energy supply. The effective closure of the Strait of Hormuz in the first week of March, through which around 20% of global oil flows, drove oil prices up by almost 30% and triggered a rapid repricing across risk assets.

Headline returns understated the degree of dispersion beneath the surface. Global equities declined 3.5% over the quarter, while government bonds were broadly flat. Value and defensive equities outperformed, while growth equities fell almost 9%, with the 'Mag 7' down over 11% as valuation compression overwhelmed positive earnings momentum. Regionally, the UK and Japan were relative outperformers, while European equities were hit hardest amid renewed fears of an energy price shock. Germany's DAX fell 7.4% over the quarter, with losses significantly larger peak to trough (roughly 13%). Asia ex-Japan equities also weakened as higher energy import costs weighed on growth expectations.

Rates markets were highly volatile. Inflation expectations surged following the oil price spike, with markets briefly pricing policy rate hikes before shifting back toward growth concerns as the conflict dragged on. No major central bank changed policy during the quarter, though expectations evolved materially, particularly in Europe and the UK.

Gold proved volatile and an inconsistent hedge, falling sharply in March before finishing the quarter up over 7%. All the while, the US dollar strengthened as investors seek safe havens. Software and SaaS equities underperformed amid concerns over AI-driven disruption, while stress also emerged in private debt markets, with US BDCs (business development companies) declining 13%. Public credit markets remained comparatively resilient.

Markets rebounded into April following a tentative ceasefire and falling oil prices, though conviction remains fragile. In this volatile risk-on/risk-off environment, we continue to favour diversified, broadly invested portfolios and avoid concentration or short-term market timing.

Risk warnings and important notes

Collective investments are generally medium to long-term investments. The value of units may go down as well as up and past performance is not necessarily a guide to the future.

Collective investments are traded at ruling prices. Commission and incentives may be paid and, if so, would be included in the overall costs. All performance is calculated on a total return basis, after deduction of all fees and commissions and in US dollar terms. Forward pricing is used.

The Fund invests in other collective investments, which levy their own charges. This could result in a higher fee structure for the Fund.

Fluctuations in the value of the underlying funds, the income from them and changes in interest rates mean that the value of the Fund and any income arising from it may fall, as well as rise, and is not guaranteed.

Deductions of charges and expenses mean that you may not get back the amount you invested.

The fees charged within the Fund and by the managers of the underlying funds are not guaranteed and may change in the future.

Higher risk investments may be subject to sudden and larger falls in value in comparison to other investments. Higher risk investments include, but are not limited to, investments in smaller companies, even in developed markets, investments in emerging markets or single country debt or equity funds and investments in high yield or non-investment grade debt.

Notwithstanding ongoing monitoring of the underlying funds within the Fund, there can be no assurance that the performance of the funds will achieve their stated objectives.

The Fund will contain shares or units in underlying funds that invest internationally. The value of an investor's investment and the income arising from it will therefore be subject to exchange rate fluctuations.

Foreign securities may have additional material risks, depending on the specific risks affecting that country, such as: potential constraints on liquidity and the repatriation of funds; macroeconomic risks; political risks; foreign exchange risks; tax risks; settlement risks; and potential limitations on the availability of market information.

The Fund may contain shares or units in underlying funds that do not permit dealing every day. Investments in such funds will only be realisable on their dealing days. It is not possible to assess the proper market price of these investments other than on the fund's dealing days.

No borrowing will be undertaken by the Fund except for the purpose of meeting short term liquidity requirements. Borrowings will not exceed 10% of the net asset value of the Fund. For such purpose, the securities of the Fund may be pledged. No scrip borrowing will be allowed. The Cell is not permitted to enter into any form of borrowing or loan arrangement with other cells of the Company nor other collective investment schemes of the Manager.

While derivative instruments may be used for hedging purposes, the risk remains that the relevant instrument may not necessarily fully correlate to the investments in the Fund and accordingly not fully reflect changes in the value of the investment, giving rise to potential net losses.

Forward contracts are neither traded on exchanges nor standardised. Principals dealing in these markets are also not required to make markets in the currencies they trade, with the result that these markets may experience periods of illiquidity. Banks and dealers will normally act as principals and usually each transaction is negotiated on an individual basis.

The Manager has the right to close the Fund to new investors, in order to manage it more efficiently, in accordance with its mandate.

Investment in the Fund may not be suitable for all investors. Investors should obtain advice from their financial adviser before proceeding with an investment.

Investors are reminded that any forecasts and/or commentary included in this MDD are not guaranteed to occur, and merely reflect the interpretation of the public information and propriety research available to the Investment Manager at a particular point in time.
